

Make-A-Wish Makes Kids Smile

My son has cancer. During treatment he tries to keep a smile on his face but a Mom can tell a fake smile when she sees it. The Make-A-Wish foundation sent us to New York to see the Yankees play. Make-A-Wish allowed him to meet the players, have photos taken, and get autographs. His smile when he came back to our seats was huge and the first real smile I'd seen since his ordeal started.

CCC Makes Giving So Easy!

Since I started working for the State 11 years ago, I have happily donated, increasing the amount of my donations as my career and salary grew. I now contribute more than I ever could manage to make on a one-off basis. CCC makes it easy to give - from the book of eligible nonprofits listing mission and percentage of administrative fees to automatic payroll deduction. The best feeling is receiving handwritten thank-you letters from the nonprofits.

Mental Health Services Create Hope for Families

My bonus son is 31 years old and has learning disabilities and autism. He also suffers from severe bipolar, anxiety, and depression along with other mental illness. It's a true daily struggle but because of services we have received through these agencies, we can face each day with new hope. They truly have been heaven sent! I donate to NAMI and Autism charities and I hope you will too.

American Red Cross Is Ready When Help Can't Wait

This year, I'm celebrating 25 years of volunteering with the Red Cross. Through preparedness, response, and recovery, the Red Cross is there when help can't wait. We ensure access to lifesaving blood, support military communities, and provide education and training like first aid and fire safety. Additionally, our disaster teams are available every minute of every day to provide blankets, food, shelter, and hope to clients affected by disaster.

Deaf Services Center Empowers Employees

I donate to Deaf Services Center (DSC) because I use their services. I took four levels of American Sign Language (ASL) classes which are taught by deaf instructors, which is invaluable when learning sign language. I now benefit from ASL interpreters at work meetings. Losing my hearing as an adult has been incredibly difficult. Thanks to DSC, I am far more aware of the information shared in meetings than I was before I sought these accommodations.

Payroll Deduction Makes Giving Easy and Impactful

The CCC allows me to make a larger impact through payroll deduction throughout the year than I could otherwise. I appreciate that there is a charity for every cause and that they provide a summary of each charity including how much of my donation is being used for administrative costs. The online pledge is very convenient and makes giving a breeze.
